DONAHAY VETOES 74TH MEASURE

Three of Latest Propose Canal

ACTS DECLARED TRAVESTY

Three Other Bills Are Added to Dead Heap

COLUMBUS — (Associated Press) — Governor Donahay with a total of seventy-four bills vetoed and with two partial vetoes (appropriation bills) established a record never before approached by any former chief executive of killing more than one-fourth of the measures enacted by the legislature.

By vetoing six additional measures today, the governor boosted his record to seventy-four. This figure probably will stand, it was said at the executive office. Other measures still before him probably will become laws thru lapse of time at midnight tonight.

COLUMBUS — (Associated Press) — Disapproving five more bills this morning, Governor Donahay brought his total of vetoes up to 73. There were other vetoes in the offing.

Three of the measures which the governor returned to the assembly unsigned, proposed abandonment of portions of the Miami and Erie canal in the cities of Dayton, Troy and Piquette. He, however, signed three bills which authorize the state to abandon small portions of canal property in the city of Akron and in Barberton. The vetoed canal bills proposed state abandonment of large portions of canal property in the three cities affected, and according to the veto message is valued at $460,000. The governor asserted that he would not approve any bill which sought to abandon any canal property of considerable value.

The other measures disapproved by the chief executive today dealt with the administration of assets of a decedent in another state, and to construct a road thru the Carpenter experiment farm in Weigs co.

In vetoing the canal bills Governor Donahay declared abandonment of canals "in my opinion is a travesty" and said he is convinced that the state should retain its title to all canal lands including terminals, wharves, piers, etc., and the state in transferring them to the city of Dayton, Troy and Piquette, have given away over $1,000,000 worth of canal lands, including an example of canal lands valued at $10,000,000, and he said he is proposing to return these lands to pay current operating expenses.

THE FINESTOCK BILL KILLED
The fineststock bill, permitting courts to place a woman in the Marysville reformatory upon failure to pay fines and to have male prisoners work out fines and costs on roads, or other public work, today had been added to the long list of legislative measures vetoed by Governor Donahay.

Laws that make a convict of a poor man and permit a rich man to escape with a fine will not be approved by me, so long as I am governor of Ohio," is the chief executive declared last yesterday in disapproving the measure which had been sponsored by the Anti-Saloon League as a means of combating liquor law violations.

The veto message, the shortest of the session, contained exactly fifty-six words, including the announcement that the bill was being returned to the legislature.

The bill which was passed by the senate, had been characterized by those who objected to it as the "tail and chain bill" and declared to result in the imprisonment of women without a jury trial, was the subject of many letters and telegrams directed to the governor.

While opponents declared the measure was too drastic, its supporters said it would only prevent bootleggers "hiding behind women's skirts" and that prisoners would be better off working in the open than if kept idle in jail.

GOVERNOR CRITICIZED
The governor decided to disapprove the measure, it was said, after receiving lengthy briefs from attorneys who represented factions interested in seeing it enacted and from those opposed to it.

James A. White, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in a statement issued following an announcement of the veto, criticized the governor's action, declaring that the same objections voiced by him could be applied to all of the criminal statutes of the state.

The veto meant that the governor wanted first offenders to remain in jail with hardened criminals when they could be outside earning at least $1.50 a week instead of the 60 cents granted them while in jail, the statement declared, and that he "prefers to allow such prisoners, if intelligent, to get out of jail without knowledge of the trial court."

"The veto also indicates," it continued, "that the legislature is sent men to jail or the workhouse, but the women go free except for possibly being confined in jail, rather than send them to the women's reformatory where they will

WILL REVEAL CULT SECRETS

Girl is Arrested as She Plans to Marry

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — (Associated Press) — Two members of the House of David, subject of an investigation by a special grand jury because of charges of immorality among members of the colony, were arrested early today at Stevensville, a village twelve miles south of here, when they sought to leave the jurisdiction of Berrien co.

They were Benjamin Hill, pitcher for the House of David baseball team, and a 26-year-old girl whose name the authorities withheld. They left the colony shortly before midnight.

Sheriff George Bridgeman, who hurried to Stevensville to subpoena the pair to appear today before the grand jury said they promised to tell all they knew about the cult.

They make the second and third members of the colony in custody. The other is Phoebe Robertson, 17, one of three young girls who planned to marry yesterday but was prevented by Attorney General Daugherty. HIGH OFFICIALS ESCAPE

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — (United Press) — Flight of high officials of the House of David, following revelations of immorality among members of the colony, was interrupted by sheriff today.

Benjamin Hill, one of the "seven pillars" of the colony, accompanied by a "virgin" member, was taken into custody at Stevensville railroad station, seven miles south of here, by Sheriff George Bridgeman.

The couple had checked several trunks and other baggage to Chicago.

The sheriff believes Hill planned to join "King" Benjamin Purnell, ruler of the colony, who has been missing since the first of the year. Hill and the woman were taken back to St. Joseph and held under guard at a hotel.

The "pillar" promised to go before the investigation being conducted by Judge Dingeman and reveal the inside workings of the cult. The sheriff said he had information that three other high officials of the cult had escaped during the night.

WEDDINGS HELD UP
The sensational development of the inquiry, which reached Attorney General Daugherty that a group marriage was planned at the colony, witnesses have testified to the marriage of the leaders who do not follow the rules of a continent life, laid down by "King" Benjamin.

Daugherty ordered County Clerk Frank Hall to hold up licenses for the wedding and sent out deputies to bring in the proposed brides. He wanted to find out if they were going into the ceremony of their own free will and if they had ever been subjected to any religious rites based on immorality.

One of the brides was taking a bath another was ill and a third was at a farm and couldn't appear.

Finally, deputies located Phoebe Robertson. She had a bad memory and could not answer any of Daugherty's important questions.

The attorney general ordered her jailed and held as a material witness until she recovers her memory.

Hessie Daniels, an attractive blonde of 18, was also quizzed but she had been secretly married the previous night.

Dewhurst visited Judge Dingeman in an effort to obtain the release of Phoebe.

"By what authority do you imprison this girl?" Dewhurst demanded of the judge after brushing by deputies guarding the room where the investigation was in progress.

"Ample," the judge replied. "Where is the law?" Dewhurst shouted, waving his arms wildly.

"Test it and I will show you," Judge Dingeman replied, advancing toward his adversary.

"So you have joined in this deal, too, have you?" Dewhurst said with a sneer as he snapped his fingers in the judge's face.

Deputies held the two men as the judge clinched his fists.

Dewhurst then proceeded to the county jail, where a 10-1 encounter with the sheriff followed.

"So you are in with that bunch too?" Dewhurst asked the sheriff.

Bridgeman picked the attorney up and tumbled him out the door.

Testimony of three former members of the cult was heard Wednesday. One told of alleged incestuous exposure made by "King" Benjamin, the second of midnight rituals, the third of seeing three members in the colony attack a girl.

STOLEN GOODS IN CANAL, BELIEF

Authorities to Drain Waterway at Spencerville

AUTO ACCESSORIES SOUGHT

Insurance Company Detectives Cause Search

Belief that underneath the waters of the Miami and Erie canal at Spencerville lies the hiding place for scores of tires and auto accessories, stolen from northwestern Ohio garages, has led authorities to decide to drain the waterway.

The locks will be opened and the water allowed to flow out, revealing to day the muddy bottom.

What will be found remains to be seen. Officers are of the opinion that a number of stolen tires, which they have been unable to trace, are resting securely in the canal.

Detectives employed by insurance concerns to ferret out the mystery shrouding a series of garage robberies in this section of Ohio declared Thursday that they are sure the canal has frequently been used by thieves for hiding their loot, at least temporarily.

CONFESSIONS SEARCH BASIS
They declined to state Thursday whether or not their information was based on the confession made by Floyd Mofford and George Crook, alleged members of the auto ring.

Mofford is in Allen co jail, awaiting action of the grand jury in connection with the robbery of the Landeck garage January 23. Crook is in Van Wert co jail charged with the Crook job. He is said to have confessed the crime.

The canal locks may be opened sometime Thursday. Sheriff Crosson or one or more deputies may be on hand to superintend the operation.

Jury's Probe of Booze Distribution

CHICAGO — (Associated Press) — Federal indictments naming seven men as well as the firm of Gommes and Ulrich, liquor dealers, which recently was dissolved by distribution of its $200,000 stock of liquors to the stockholders, were returned before District Judge Wilkerson today by the federal grand jury.

The firm and the individuals, who included Charles A. Williams, former judge, and the attorneys who had charge of the legal details in connection with the liquidation of the firm, former Alderman R. J. Mulcahy and five others, were charged with violation of the federal prohibition law and with aiding and abetting in the illegal transportation of liquor.

Besides the corporation and former Judge Williams and Mulcahy and other individuals named as participants of what has been termed the "booze dividend" of the liquidating liquor firm, are Frank A. Ream, Frederick Diehl, Arthur P. Christman, Harry F. Taney and Carl F. Behrens.

Mulcahy also is charged with receiving a share of the liquor.

Few of the men named are widely known and none of the extremely wealthy men said to have been among the stockholders who received the liquor dividends was indicted but the grand jury did not stop its work with the case with the return of the indictments. The jurors returned to their chambers to continue the investigation with the possibility it was understood, that further indictments might be returned.

The Grommes and Ulrich case attracted attention a few weeks ago when it became known that the old wholesale liquor firm had by a novel method dissolved under an arrangement by which its liquors were divided among the shareholders.

It became known that some of the stockholders had shared in the distribution and that it had been made possible by the issuance of permits for the removal of the liquor by Roscoe C. Andrews, then acting prohibition officer for Illinois, whose suspension as a result of the case was announced Sunday.

At the time, former Judge Williams declared the distribution of the liquor dividends was legal.

RUM FLOW TO U. S.

ON INCREASE

Shown in Official Report on British Exports

LONDON — (Associated Press) — George B. Wilson, secretary of the United Kingdom Alliance, in his annual statement on liquor consumption, says that in January and February last, the exports of the British spirit trust to the United States have increased considerably the figures being 238,685 proof gallons as against 80,097 in 1922.

Assuming the government of the Bahamas, the report continues, "does not take action on the export of rum maintained at the present rate for 1923 the total (1,400,000 proof gallons) would equal about half of one per cent of America's pre-prohibition alcoholic consumption."

The consumption of intoxicating liquor in the United Kingdom during 1922, measured in terms of absolute alcohol, declined 12 1/2 per cent, the report asserts and the expenditure of such liquors declined 12 per cent on the consumption respectively in the year 1921. Two factors, says Mr. Wilson, have mainly contributed to this decline—lower wages and the continuance of the high prices at which spirits and beer were sold.

The expenditure per head of population was about seven pence nine shillings and per adult of 21 years upwards, 12 pounds 10 shillings as against 3 pounds 12 shillings 6 pence at 6 pence respectively in 1913.

SIMPLE SCOTTISH GIRL IS BRIDE OF KING'S SON

DUKE AND DUCHESS OF YORK

Duke of York Weds Amid Unusual Scenes of Brilliance in London

LONDON — (Associated Press) — Albert, Duke of York, was united in marriage with Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon in solemn old Westminster Abbey at noon today with a pomp and panoply reminiscent of the stately days of the mid-Victorian era and amid the tumultuous demonstration of the vast throngs that gathered under threatening skies to witness the wedding ceremony.

As the cortège entered the abbey a slight drizzle of rain fell but soon afterward the sun broke thru the clouds and as the royal pair made their exit they were greeted with brilliant sunshine, recalling the old saying "Happy is the Bride the Sun Shines on."

It was the second time in a little more than a year that the king and queen of England gave one of their children in wedlock to a person outside the realm of royalty. While the marriage of the sovereigns' second son did not stir the popular imagination of the British empire as did Princess Mary's wedding, the romance which united a simple Scottish girl into a royal princess bride and elevated her from a position of relative obscurity to the place of fourth lady of the land, captured the hearts of the English people.

SCENE OF BRILLIANCE
Today's ceremony within the hallowed walls of the historic abbey, was both a great religious and social event and was marked by a glittering exhibition of fashion and sumptuous jewels. Eight hundred of England's greatest luminaries in state court, diplomacy and society, as well as an impressive assemblage of foreign princes, dukes, duchesses and other of rank and title, were there, attended in livery and jeweled embroidery that represented the proverbial king's ransom.

A drizzle that had continued thru-out the early hours of the morning gave way to clearing skies not long before the brilliant wedding cortège began its procession from Buckingham Palace to the abbey and cheered the waiting thousands with the hope that the sun would shine as it did on Princess Mary's wedding day a year ago.

WALLS PRODUCES RING
The archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by England's most distinguished prelates, solemnized the union. The Prince of Wales took a prominent part in the proceedings and doubtless learned much that will be turned to good account when he enters the marriage state himself. Wales and his brother Prince Henry acted as best men, but it was Wales who produced the ring at the critical moment.

The eight bridesmaids were chosen mainly from among the personal friends of the bride. They were dressed in immaculate ivory white crepe chiffon trimmed with Nottingham lace, and presented a fetching picture.

Lady Elizabeth was attired in an exquisite gown of white ivory moire chiffon embellished with bands of silver and pearl embroidery. A fifteen-foot train of ivory colored netting hung from her shoulders. Queen Mary's attire was a gown of blue and silver.

Seats were limited to those on intimate terms with the families of the bride and groom.

LONDON — (Associated Press) —

Thus far, the despatch adds, no boats have been picked up and there is no indication of the fate of passengers and crew.

Owing to the fact that there are no landing places in the neighborhood to Cape Frio and that a heavy sea is running today, grave anxiety is felt for the safety of the boats, 25 CHILDREN ABOARD

The Mossamedes' passengers included 20 women and 25 children. Two of them were British, the rest Portuguese.

The Mossamedes, a vessel of 4,615 tons, left Capetown last Friday for the west coast. Just when she went ashore is unknown, but she sent out an S. O. S. call for help. The British steamer Port Victor, which was 290 miles away, raced to her assistance, arriving about midnight on Tuesday. The Port Victor found the Mossamedes abandoned.

The British steamer, the despatch says, is still searching for the boat. If necessary the German steamer Willard, which is coaling at Walvis, will assist in the search.

AMERICAN SHIP IN DISTRESS

SAN FRANCISCO — (Associated Press) — Wireless stations early today picked up S. O. S. calls from the 5,543 ton shipping barge cargo steamer Brush, in distress off Cape Arago. Later in the morning the Radio Corporation of America received a wireless message that the steamer Brush, hard aground, was "breaking up fast." It was said that the steamer Admiral Flske had gone to her aid.

The crew of the steamer Brush has abandoned the ship, according to the message of the ship's radio operator, relayed to the Federal Telegraph Company here. The operator said that it was his final message.

Man Linked With Clara Phillips Case Interviewed

CLAIMS WOMAN AS WIFE

"Ridiculous to Think My Mate Murderess," He Says

(BY HERMAN RUPPEL.)
TEGUIGAPA, Honduras. — (United Press) — The complete story of the woman held in jail here as Clara Phillips, the "Hammer slayer" of Los Angeles, was told today by Jesse C. Carson, who claims to be her husband.

In his cell at the National Penitentiary, Carson claimed to have proof of the innocence of himself, his wife and the Mrs. R. M. Young, who are being held for United States authorities.

"I know nothing of Clara Phillips except thru the newspapers," he said earnestly.

"It is ridiculous to think my wife is the murderess."

Carson admitted that he knew little of his wife's sister, Mrs. Young, except that she lived in Foughkeepsie, N. Y.

Previous dispatches indicated Mrs. Young also was suspected of being Clara Phillips.

He said he had complete documents in his trunk to prove the identity of all of them.

MAN DESCRIBED

The striking resemblance of Carson to the description of a man wanted in Los Angeles was clearly noted. He has reddish curly hair. There is also a white scar on his left cheek. He has the stature and mannerisms described in cablegrams from Los Angeles police.

Carson said he married the woman arrested as Clara Phillips, in November, 1923, and that he is the representative of American capitalists who are seeking investment in Central America. He himself has $20,000 invested in bonds of the Edison Company. He is a native of Virginia.

"We left New Orleans for Mexico in January of this year, traveling leisurely until we came here and were seized."

"If I could but obtain the documents in my trunk I could prove this to you. But they have been seized by the authorities." (This was not mentioned by either his wife or Mrs. Young in an interview yesterday.)

RESENTMENT DISPLAYED

Pressed for more details concerning the identity of his wife's sister, Carson said he did not know whether "or not she is married." All he knew was that "she lived in Foughkeepsie."

Like his wife, he displayed resentment toward the attitude of the American minister, saying:

"Instead of defending citizens of the United States here," he said, "we were at the orders of the Honduras authorities."

Carson stated he had requested the American minister to cable an uncle living in Galveston, asking for $500.

The jail conditions are very bad, Carson said. He complained that he had to spend most of the night on his feet or sitting up. He fears for his health and has requested services of a physician. He has been under the treatment for the last four years for cardiac trouble. His face was pale and lines of worry were drawn under his eyes.

"I don't want to die this way like a dog," he said.

BOY PLEADS TO DIE WITH HIS BROTHER

ROME, Ga.—Ralph Baker, 15, cried today to die on the gallows alongside his brother, George, 19.

"If George has got to die, I must die too," the haggard youth sobbed hysterically as he received a commutation to life imprisonment from Governor Hardwick who at the same time ordered that George Baker must pay with his life tomorrow for the murder of a deputy sheriff.

Ralph paced with quick nervous steps for hours about his narrow cell, as he pleaded for the right to accompany in death the brother with whom he has been inseparable in life.

The father of the boys, a broken down little old man who has disposed of his possessions to fight for his son's lives, kept an all-night vigil with the youths.

PROBE OF BOOZE GRAFT BEGUN

Charges Against Federal Dry Agents Investigated

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — An investigation into the many charges that graft is being practiced on or among federal prohibition agents has been begun by the internal revenue bureau, under which the prohibition unit operates. Treasury officials said today that considerable data had been laid before Commissioner Blair but that the inquiry had disclosed no losses to the government.

There was no statement indicating whether present agents of the prohibition forces had been found guilty of graft, but the information which the bureau has obtained indicated, it was said, that many former agents had been able to obtain money thru misrepresentation of their influence.

The investigation will continue until all of the charges are sifted to the bottom, but it was announced that the internal revenue officials would disclose none of their information until evidence warranting definite action had been obtained.

WOMAN IS RAISED FROM DEAD

Life is Restored Thru Science at Omaha, Neb.

SENSATION IS DESCRIBED

Mother of 16 is Revived by Injection of Adrenalin

(By THOMAS W. INGLESBY.)
OMAHA, Neb. — (United Press) — A graphic account of how it feels to die and then awaken again in the flesh and blood instead of the spirit world was given today by a woman, restored to life by science.

Mrs. Rafaela Mercurio, 53, was revived after entering the shadows of death by adrenalin injected into her heart by Dr. W. A. Gerrie, when one physician had given her up as dead. Her body was purple. She gave no outward signs of breathing or heart action. Prayers for the dead were in progress in her bedroom. But her resuscitated herself to death, resolving to die "beautifully" and became confused and puzzled upon regaining consciousness when the powerful gland extract started her heart beating again and sent blood pulsing thru her arteries.

Mrs. Mercurio, wife of a well-to-do Italian, is the mother of 16 children. She has ten grand-children and three great-grandchildren.

"I could feel death pulling me," she said. "I was slipping. I tried to find something to hold to, but could not. I felt far away and alone yet it seemed there was something I must do before I slipped entirely away."

"Yes, yes, that was it. I had just a few minutes. I must straighten out in bed. I must cross my hands on my breast. I must smile. My children must know that I died in peace."

"Once I saw a woman who died while suffering much pain. She was all curled up in bed. It was a terrible sight. I did not want to appear that way to my children. So I straightened myself, settled flat on my back and folded my hands, prepared for the end."

"From far away there seemed to be people about me. But their voices grew more distant."

"Then there seemed to come to me the comforting words of a priest. They added to my peace and contentment. I was ready for death. I smiled. I think. I knew I wanted to. It was the last thing I remember."

For ten days after the first injection of adrenalin, April 13, Mrs. Mercurio lay in a semi-conscious condition. She uttered unintelligible words at times and often lapsed into a state of coma.

"During that time I felt like a chunk of wood," the patient explained today.

"My son, who nursed me at night accidentally burned my body twice, yet I felt no pain. Once he placed a nail on my foot. He did not realize it was too hot until upon removing it he found a deeply burned outline. Again a hot water bottle placed on my stomach scorched the flesh. But I was like a chunk of wood and felt nothing."

Full consciousness was restored to Mrs. Mercurio at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, April 23.

"I will never forget that hour," she declared, with a happy shrug of the shoulders.

"It was the first time I had noticed the clock. It struck four times. Until then I had forgotten all about time. But somehow that old clock made me realize I was a real human being in a very real world."

"It was almost a shock to me and a very delightful one."

Mrs. Mercurio glanced affectionately at her frolicking great-grandchildren on the floor.

"It is so good to be alive," she murmured contentedly.

SHIRMER PROMISES TO CLEAN UP GARBAGE DUMP

Charles Shirmer, owner of a farm at the city limits, appeared before Dr. J. Sutter, county health commissioner, Thursday, in response to a summons and promised to start work immediately on removal of garbage and packing house offal from his premises.

Action against Shirmer will be held up, Dr. Sutter said, if he makes good his agreement to dispose of the refuse, which is said to be a source of annoyance to the vicinity.

J. W. Landick, president of Bath trustees, attended the clean-up conference.

BIDS ON FILING CASES FOR AUDITOR RECEIVED

County commissioners received bids Thursday afternoon on new steel filing cabinets for the county auditor's office.

A sufficient number of cabinets are to be bought to house valuable records now kept in old wooden cases, which would be easily burned in case of fire.

Contracts for supplying other county offices with needed filing cases may be let later.

PROGRAM FOR GINGHAM BALL ARRANGED; TIES TO BE SOLD AT DOOR

Card playing at the Gingham ball, to be given Friday evening at the Elks' club by the nursing division and the Junior Red Cross to raise funds for the dental clinic at the south Center, will begin at 8:30 and dancing will begin at 9 o'clock, it was announced Thursday.

Bridge and bid-euche will be played from 8:30 to 10. The grand march will begin at 10:30, so that card players may attend.

Prizes for the most attractive gingham costume will be awarded immediately after the grand march, it was announced.

Gingham ties, which all men attending the ball will be required to wear, will be sold at the door. More than 400 have been made by the women.

Ticket sales for the ball are proceeding at a good rate, committee members said Thursday.

JURY WILL PROBE TIRE THEFTS

Prosecutor Prepares to Investigate Alleged Ring

Operations of the alleged auto tire ring which is said to have its headquarters in Spencerville will likely be sifted to the bottom, by the Allen-co grand jury, which is scheduled to convene Wednesday, May 2.

Prosecuting Attorney Eugene T. Lippincott announced Thursday that he intends calling a jury on that date to investigate all law violations.

The Spencerville case will be among the matters taken up, he indicated. Floyd Motford, 22, farm hand, and former inmate of the Mansfield reformatory, who has confessed participating in garage robberies in Landeck, Ft. Jennings and numerous other small villages in Indiana and Ohio, will probably be one of the principal witnesses for the state.

IMPRISONED GARAGE MAN

Mofford in his confession named Jesse Davies, Spencerville tire dealer and garage owner, as the ringleader for the ring in disposing of the property. Davies was arrested, but Mofford's testimony was insufficient to warrant binding him over. Justice E. M. Botkin, who heard the case, declined.

Since Davies was released, authorities have apprehended a second member of the alleged ring, in the person of George Crook, a waiter, who was arrested in Toledo.

He was taken to Van Wert-co to face charges in connection with robbing a garage at Convey, a village on the Pennsylvania, near Van Wert.

A call for the jury has not been sent, as the names of the members have not been selected. The names may be drawn Friday. The petit venire will be called simultaneously with the grand jury.

ROAD BIDS MAY BE REJECTED

Funds Insufficient for Improvements, Commissioners Say

Because funds available for road purposes are insufficient, bids received by the county commissioners for the construction and repair of a group of Allen-co highways, may be rejected, Allen-co County Commissioner A. J. Gray declared Thursday. Bids on contractors submitted to the county board Tuesday.

The program as planned would mean an outlay of practically $200,000. County commissioners believe that all of the roads should be improved, but find that there will not be enough money to go around.

All of the roads are important thoroughfares for cross country traffic. Commissioners have not given consideration to the matter, but may be able to select part of the roads and let contracts.

The low road bids on hot mix surface, received Tuesday are: Lima-Delphos road—H. L. Pratt, and Allen-co Paving Co., $23,121.40, each.

St. Johns road—H. E. Pratt, penetration surface, $23,334.

Amadora road—re-surfacing, W. E. Irwin, $4,498.

Lima-Spencerville road—Andrews Paving company, re-surfacing top, $17,160. North-st, Spencerville, Allen-co Paving company, $4,092.

Spencerville-Delphos road—Spencer Stone company, $1,550.

Ft. Jennings road—H. E. Pratt, $6,240.

Napoleon road and Lafayette village pavement—H. E. Pratt, $59,078.20.

TIRES STOLEN

Three tires were stolen from the garage of H. A. Basinger, 459 McPherson-av, he reported to police Thursday.

CLARKE WILL NOT ENTER RACE

Former U. S. Justice Doesn't Like Presidential Nomination

INDORSES COURT PLAN

Strong Also for America's Entry Into League

CHICAGO — (United Press) — John H. Clarke former associate justice of the United States supreme court, in addressing the Chicago City Club today stated that he would not "under any circumstances" aspire to or accept the nomination for the office of president of the United States.

Clarke's statement was made as a preface to his discussion of the league of nations.

"There is at least one man in this country who knows his limitations and I have faced him every time I have shaved for 40 years," Clarke stated.

The former associate justice said he would not notice the suggestion of the possibility of his nomination for president, "if it was not being used to give a partisan character to the effort I am making in behalf of the league of nations and it is impairing my usefulness as an advocate of the importance to our country and to mankind of our sharing in the first attempt in modern history to unite all the nations in one league to secure permanent peace in the world."

Clarke said that of the thirty distinguished Republicans who in 1920 applied to voters to vote for Mr. Harding as the current way of carrying the country into some association of nations to secure the peace of the world, 20 are members of the League of Nations, nonpartisan association which the former associate justice represents.

"It is an open secret," he added, "that only official position prevents at least three more from joining us."

Clarke's audience referred to Secretaries Hughes and Hoover and Justice Taft.

The speaker endorsed the proposal of President Harding that this country participate in an international court of justice.

In concluding, Clarke said the present apparent business prosperity of the country was merely sporadic and temporary and could not be permanent until the European market was restored to farmers. He said isolation was impossible for America "responsible as we are for the government of the Philippines" for the maintenance and protection of the Panama Canal for the safety of many thousands miles of coast line; for the protection of commerce on every sea and for a policy of an open door in China, Asia and Africa."

Says Shampoo With Olive Oil to Have Glossy Hair

Glossy, soft and shining hair is not so hard to have as you think. Beauty specialists now say to shampoo with olive oil—that is the secret. Because it is the mildest of cleansers; leaves hair soft and pliant, gleaming richly. Thousands of the heads of beautiful hair you see are due to it. The simplest form and easiest to use is Palmolive Shampoo. Thoroughly cleans the hair and scalp—removes dirt and dandruff. Never leaves hair dry or brittle. You can obtain it at any drug or department store for a few cents a bottle. It works wonders. Use it just once, and you will note the improvement.

REDUCTION ASKED ON FIRE RATES

Underwriters Requested to Act on $25,000 Promise

Action on the promise of National Board of Fire Underwriters that water main installations planned by the city last year, since completed would reduce insurance rates in Lima at least $25,000 a year, is asked in a letter written by City Manager C. A. Bingham to the New York office of the board.

An inspector of the national board, named Howland, went over the plans of the installation and informed city officials that he was sure the water mains could be made the basis of a reduction in rates that would amount to $25,000.

"These 22 miles of mains have been installed," Bingham's letter reads, "including about 150 new additional fire hydrants and some 200 new valves connecting up the dead ends that formerly existed. We are now having a Pilotometer survey made for leakage and faulty valves and hydrants."

"We would much appreciate some tangible evidence on your part as to this reduction in insurance rates" the letter concludes.

STOP WAR BY LAW, WOMEN CRY

Federation of Clubs Opens Fight for Peace

WORLD COURT IDEA FAVORED

Definite Action Expected at Meeting in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga.—(United Press)—Men are not allowed to fight their differences in fistful altercation or with guns, why should nations be? If courts ready to restrain the conduct of the various commonwealths, why not of the various countries?

These questions and others kindred will be asked by Mrs. Horace Mann Towne of Iowa and Washington, D. C., chairman of the newly created department of international relations in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, at the biennial council to be held at Atlanta, Ga., May 7th-11th, and 2,000,000 women who compose the organization who expected to have some thing to do with the answering.

Women are weary of war. The world is weary of war. And, yet nobody does anything about it. The thing to do, in the opinion of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which has members in 18 foreign countries as well as every state in the Union, is to establish a world court. The way to do this, the Federation believes, is to aid in forming an enlightened public opinion, that the people of every country will demand that a reign of law shall be established among nations as it has been among men.

"There is no reason why the disputes of nations cannot be settled by impartial tribunals as the disputes of men are settled by courts of law," says a statement given out by Mrs. Towne, who is the wife of former Congressman Towne of Iowa, and now Governor of Porto Rico.

In encouraging the study of world conditions, the International Relations Department is urging club women to inform themselves as to the history and status of international relations and of the world conditions which have followed the war.

The General Federation is now preparing to furnish study programs and reference lists and hopes soon to send out from Washington Headquarters a traveling library on foreign relations. Already more than 100 clubs are taking international relations study.

After informing ourselves and working to influence public opinion, we will strive to promote better understanding and establish friendly relations between the women of different countries, in 13 of which we now have club members.

The court that Mrs. Towne recommends is that suggested by Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, who is giving her every assistance in her work. Mrs. Hughes is honorary chairman of Mrs. Towne's department, and Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird is honorary vice-chairman.

"Mothercraft" is another Federation battery. The word has a nice honey sound. It was invented by May Bliss Dickinson, R. N., of Trinity Court, Boston.

Just as "home economics" came along and saved the day when kitchen drudgery began to pall, so mothercraft has, by becoming scientific, taken out all the irksomeness of "minding and tending the baby," and put training for motherhood on an altogether different basis.

While "mothercraft" originated in Boston as a school course, it quickly spread all over Massachusetts, and will soon be nationalized, as the General Federation of Women's Clubs will take steps to have it incorporated as a part of the curricula of every public school.

The work will be presented by Mrs. Ira Couch Wood of Chicago, chairman of the General Child Welfare Division and nationally an expert on child welfare expert and collaborator of Miss Dickinson.

DEATH TOLL OF 100,000

"No young girl would purposely kill a child, but more than 100,000 babies die in the United States each year, because the girls of today who are the mothers and teachers of tomorrow, are not taught mothercraft," says Mrs. Wood.

"We are trying to train girls for intelligent motherhood, and whether or not they become mothers, they will have profited by a knowledge of mothercraft. Almost 50,000 babies die each year in the United States before they are a month old. Investigation has proved that in most cases insurance of the mother or wrong living conditions have caused the deaths."

COW TESTS NEED OF ALLEN-CO

University Expert Addresses Farmers Here

PAY FOR MILKING, BELIEF

300 Pounds Butter Fat in Year is Minimum

Allen-co needs a cow testing association, Professor Oscar Eri, of the dairy department of the Ohio State university, told farmers at the Board of Commerce auditorium Wednesday evening.

Eri, who accompanies the farm demonstration train as a lecturer, believes that many farmers are paying for the exercise of milking. If a cow does not produce 300 pounds of butter fat per year she is losing the owner money, he said, and should be eliminated from the herd.

Statistics for Allen-co show that the average yield in butter fat for cows of the county is 141 pounds per year. Eri urged that farmers weed out unprofitable cows and in this connection pointed out the need of a cow testing association.

No specific one-way cure of corn rot exists, H. J. Ridge, Allen-co agent warned farmers Thursday. The idea prevalent among some farmers that the rot is caused by a single organism is fallacious, experts have come to believe.

Ear rot and root rot, they say, is caused by two different organisms. Root rot originates from a spore which remains in the field from year to year. Ear rot is caused by an infection from wind-borne spores.

ROTATION NECESSARY
Rotation of crops and fertilization are the most effective remedies for root rot and prevention of ear rot is best accomplished by careful elimination of all ears which do not meet the government test.

"To overcome rot in corn requires good farming in every department of the game," Ridge declared. "Good seed, good soils and careful culture will do much to eliminate it entirely."

Members of the Northwestern Ohio Duroc Breeders' association met in an all-day session at the county agent's office Thursday for a discussion of mutual business interests.

About 25 members attended the session, which is held quarterly, and consists of six adjoining counties. Charles Sprague, of Shawnee, is president of the association.

H. J. Ridge, county agent, visited Bluffton schools Thursday in connection with the campaign for the organization of boys and girls clubs throughout the county.

Members of the Perry-typ farm bureau will meet Thursday evening in the regular business-program session.

MANN'S SUFFER CUTS WHEN CAR COLLIDES WITH AUTO

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Mann, 813 W. High-st., were recovering Thursday from severe cuts received when the machine which Mann was driving collided head-on with another car in the Wapakoneta road, a mile south of Lima, Wednesday night.

ComDE... FT ANN NU NUU Mann was driving south, he said, and failed to see the other machine until it was close to his car. Both drivers tried to avoid the smash by turning from the road.

The other driver's name was not obtained by Mann. His car bore a Dayton plate.

FINE AND JAIL
Carl Shaw, Cridersville, admitted before Judge Jackson in criminal court Thursday that he was driving an automobile while intoxicated and received a fine of $50 and 30 days' jail sentence.

FIGHT COSTS $5
Jim Chaney, 31, 526 1-2 Walnut-st., was fined $5 for fighting when he pleaded guilty before Judge Jackson in criminal court Thursday.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an iron number of people suffer from aches, pains and digestive symptoms when their blood is lacking in iron. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food more slowly passes through you without doing you any good, you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped thousands because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

NUTRATED IRON
is an eminent physician's best blood prescription. It is recommended for all anemic and run-down conditions. It has helped thousands of others. It should help you. Ask for it at any drug store.

LIMA GIRLS HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO APPEAR IN A REAL FOLLIES SHOW

Lima girls who believe they long behind the footlights are to have an opportunity to demonstrate their theory.

Bob Shaw, manager of the New Orpheum theatre announced Thursday that a mammoth revue, to be composed exclusively of local girls and to be known as the Lima Follies, will be presented to local theatre patrons the week beginning May 6.

The fact that the theatre is constantly in search of new faces and that he believes Lima to be exceptionally well equipped with girls of beauty and native histrionic ability has led Shaw to undertake this experiment with local talent.

To insure every chance of success, Shaw has engaged as a director of the principals and chorus, Walter Windsor, New York City, who has produced a number of successful revues within the last few years. Scenery and costumes will be provided by the local theatre, Shaw stated and successful candidates for the production will receive a salary for their initial stage appearance.

Shaw stated that 100 local girls will be needed to complete the revue and that rehearsals will be held in the evening to allow working girls an opportunity to participate. He asks that each girl bring her mother to the rehearsals and in addition he plans to secure the criticism of local women to act as chaperones at all rehearsals.

Windsor, who will produce the revue, will arrive in Lima Monday and will spend the day gathering the cast. Rehearsals will be held each evening for a week and local girls will face the footlights from day inside for the first time, May 6, and for a week thereafter.

SELF TAPPED BY MUSIC, BELIEF

Subconscious Mind Touched by Opera, Concert

(BY MAURICE HENLEY)
CLEVELAND — (Special)—with music—

You can tap the vast resources of your subconscious self. You can soothe your pains. You can treble your appreciation of life.

You can almost control your destiny.

So says C. C. Brichard, music publisher of Boston, who spoke to the music supervisors' national conference here.

"Consider the case of Dr. Emilie Comas," Brichard told me. "I believe he rather lost out with the American public. Why?"

"His theory is sound basically. He says there is a point midway between our conscious self and our subconscious self and that just before we fall asleep we pass through that stage, which is the closest you can reach to our subconscious self."

"But he didn't explain how we may reach that state. Some things he doesn't know. I believe he must. But he didn't explain to us."

"Now we come to music. Go to a concert, an opera. Listen. Allow yourself to be carried away with the music. Live it. Breathe the spirit of it. If you do this you will find yourself in a deep state of consciousness."

"You will feel almost—as if you are leaving your body. But don't allow your self to go to sleep. Tell your conscious mind: 'I will not go to sleep.'"

"But you will be close to your subconscious mind, that strange thing that is mysterious of us. Reach that stage and you can talk to your subconscious self."

"You can determine to do such-and-such a thing, and you will be filled with the tremendous power of your body to accomplish it."

"But," I asked, "can a person reach this state of mind without music?"

"Of course. But not so easily. Music transports you there by its very nature."

He told of a friend complaining of a sore shoulder. They met in a hotel lobby.

"I took him over to where an orchestra was playing—for it doesn't make any difference what kind of music it is, it could even be a march—and told him to allow himself to be carried away with the music."

"Then when he had done that I had him repeat in tune with the rhythm of the music: 'Health, peace, tranquility.' The pain left him."

"It resolves itself into the law of vibrations. Everything centers around vibrations. And the vibrations of music act on the muscular system of man."

FOUR-YEAR-OLD BOY DIES

Durand Russell Burr, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burr, died Wednesday of complications at the home of his parents, 829 N. Main-st., following an illness.

In addition to his parents he is survived by two brothers and two sisters.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the residence in charge of Rev. W. H. Howard. Interment in Woodlawn.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

SHAVED AS HE SHIMMIES

While J. Johnson was dancing at Washington with Peggy Jones to establish a marathon record, he had to be shaved en route so he'd look shiklesque at the finish.

munty may be organized to save him.

Reservations for the dinner may be left with Mrs. Roy Banta, 8 Collett-st.

The business meeting of the association will be held in the afternoon before the dinner, at Memorial hall. Reports and other routine business will be disposed of at that time.

HARRY RICHARDS, prominent Philadelphia business man, says he will no longer be cheated out of meals by stomach trouble, for Tanlac has put him back in fine condition.

"No more will I be cheated out of the good things to eat, for the Tanlac treatment has overcome my stomach trouble completely, and I have also gained eight pounds," declared Harry Richards, 10 S. Fifth St., Philadelphia, well known sporting goods dealer and member of the Loyal Order of Moose, and the Ocean City Fishing Club.

"I was in such awful shape with indigestion that I had to lay off three and four days a week, unable to do any work. After eating my stomach would pain me till I was in agony, gas pressed up around my heart till I had to gasp for breath, and I was greatly annoyed by fearful dizzy spells."

"Mr. W. H. Williams put me onto Tanlac, and now I never suffer from my old troubles, can attend to business every day, and am brimful of new energy. Tanlac helped me when all else failed, and I'm glad to endorse it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.—Adv.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles HAVE TO GO

"Your very life," says Dr. Carey, depends upon the perfect functioning of the organs of your kidneys. So what else you do not matter then?" Dr. Carey's famous prescription No. 1, known for years as Marshbrook's, is not recommended for everything, but we cannot too strongly urge, if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequent passing of water night and day with smarting or irritation, back ache, sediment or bright-colored urine, bloating, nervousness, with loss of flesh or any other tendency to urinate, to try this.

Do not wait until tomorrow to begin the use of this wonderful prescription, now obtainable in both liquid and tablet form. If you have any of the above symptoms, kidney and bladder troubles don't wait away. They will grow upon you slowly, stealthily and with unfailing certainty. If you suspect that you are subject to kidney disease, don't lose a single day. For Hunter's 3 Stores, Thompson Drug Store and every good druggist have been authorized to return the purchase money of the first bottle to all who state they have received no benefit—Adv.

QUESTIONS STUMP MODERN CHILD

"Old Man Eloquent" Unheard of, School Teacher Says

BUT THEY KNOW RODOLPH

Who is This Queer Ann Who Had a War? Can't Tell

NEW YORK — (Special)—Fifty years ago every school child knew the answer to these questions. Can you answer them?

When did Queen Ann's War end?

Who was called "the Old Man Eloquent"?

What famous general had a horse named "Claybank"?

How much cord wood could you get from a tree 36 feet high and 45 inches in circumference?

Describe the bark of five kinds of trees.

What is the best kind of arithmetic for paupers?

Can't do it? Well, Miss Maria Greenbush, who has just completed 50 years of teaching in the public schools, for one, won't be surprised.

"For they aren't felling trees in the arithmetic any more," she says. "The World War has crowded out the old French and Indian wars and has put the child brought up in an apartment house, expect to know about the bark of trees."

IGNORANT OF NATURE
No, the child of 50 years ago knew a great deal more about nature at first hand than does the child of today, and that I'm sorry for. But the modern child has a wider knowledge of outside affairs and that I'm glad for.

Miss Greenbush was just 17 years old when, a half century ago, she decided to assume the support of a widowed mother and become a school marm.

"I wore my hair in braids then," she says, "and one day a visiting trustee told me I must put my hair up and wear my dress's longer."

PRISONER ADMITS MAKING BOOZE FROM HAIR TONIC

CLEVELAND — William Weisman, who Chief of Police L. G. Corlett says is a cousin to Abraham and Louis Auerbach, principals in a million dollar alcohol conspiracy, was arrested by East Cleveland police early today on a charge of violating the state prohibition law.

Three copper stills each with a capacity of 100 gallons, fifty gallons of alcohol, and 35 or 40 cases of empty bottles which had contained hair tonic were found in Weisman's home. Chief Corlett said that Weisman admitted distilling alcohol from the tonic.

The Auerbachs and three others who were convicted of conspiracy in diverting to bootleggers alcohol with drawn ostensibly to manufacture hair tonic were brought back from the Atlanta penitentiary Tuesday to testify before a special grand jury.

EXPANSION CONTINUES
YOUNGSTOWN — Expansion of iron production continues in the Youngstown steel district with another blast furnace blown in at West Middlesex, Pa., and work being rushed on three others in preparation for an early start. These three are at Lestonia, Struthers, Ohio, and Sharpsville, Pa. Of the 46 furnaces in the district 40 are now operating.

STILL SEIZED
PORTSMOUTH — A two hundred gallon capacity still and hundreds of gallons of whiskey captured in raid here by prohibition officers in last residential section of city.

OTTAWA NEWS

FREE CONCERTS, MOVIES, PLAN

Ottawa May Have Band, Show in Courthouse Yard

A unique motion picture program for people of Ottawa and vicinity is planned by Manager Rhodes of the Tawa theater, who is now enlisting aid of 50 Ottawa merchants.

Rhodes expects to present motion pictures in connection with the concert to be given this summer near the courthouse. While the concert is played, or afterward, the motion pictures may be flashed upon a screen set up on the courthouse lawn, Rhodes says.

It will be unnecessary for him to move his projecting machine from the building, as it is next door to the courthouse. The apparatus may be placed upon a fire escape.

Seating of the audience in Court-street is proposed. This street is located between the courthouse and the theater.

Rhodes has been cooperating with the Putnam-co farm bureau in striving to make free motion picture programs possible. The bureau expects to enter the cinema field, having recently authorized purchase of a screen.

The matter has been referred to the Ottawa Kiwanis club and that organization now has it under consideration.

The manager of the Tawa contemplates 16 shows, beginning May 23 and continuing until the last of August. He recommends Wednesday evening as the most appropriate time.

God Of Love Is Reaping Harvest

Dan Capid is on the warpath in Putnam-co.

With bow and arrow, the little god of love is finding many vulnerable hearts within confines of the county. It is indicated by language of the couples at the private office.

His mark so far in April has been 16, and there are still five days remaining. He doubled his record of April, 1922, when only eight were issued.

Of the 34 marriages were certified by publication of banns.

In three applications granted Wednesday, consent of parents was necessary in one. Two sisters made applications at the same time in the level two.

Alvin, 24, Allen-co farmer, and Florence Hagenbach, 22, Pleasant-park, were given a permit at the same time as Helen S. Wade, 25, Bluffton, and Elizabeth L. Riegenbach, 24, Pleasant-park, sister to the former bride-to-be.

Ralph Miller, 19, and Eva Bell Miller, 17, both of Columbus Grove, were licensed to wed after their fathers, Jefferson Miller and George Z. Miller respectively, had given their permission.

Thus does the earnest little worker in love's cause bring forth in two's and three's.

Liberate Shupp, pastor, performed the latter ceremony.

PUTNAM SCHOOL BUSES MEET REQUIREMENTS OF NEW STATE LEGISLATION

Provisions of a new state law governing the handling and construction of school buses have been complied with in Putnam-co from the time this method of hauling pupils to school was first instituted, according to G. J. Kenath, county school superintendent.

The law recently signed by the Governor makes it compulsory for all buses to be so constructed as to afford drivers unobstructed view at the sides as well as front, and that drivers must bring their vehicles to a complete stop before crossing railroad or traction tracks and make absolutely certain that no train or car is coming.

A penalty of $50 may be imposed for the first offense against the law and $100 and 30 days in the county jail for the second.

Superintendent Kenath heartily endorses the new law, adopted to afford these school pupils the best protection possible.

Data on the law will be included in a circular letter which expects to reach over the entire county.

KALIDA MAN HELD IN JAIL

Eensman Charged With Breaking Smallpox Quarantine

Al Bensman, resident of Kalida, is detained in jail there charged with breaking a smallpox quarantine at Sandusky.

Dr. W. E. Yeager, health commissioner of Putnam-co, ordered his arrest in the strength of a warrant signed by Dr. W. E. Houghgall, Sandusky health commissioner.

It is charged that Bensman appeared at a school entertainment at a further stop and other places of public gathering in Kalida, exposing others to the disease.

An investigation was made by Mr. Yeager, who discovered that Bensman had been in the county for two days. The health commissioner advised general vaccination at the schools. The suggestion was adopted. It was stated at health headquarters in Ottawa.

The parental school in Kalida accepted the other alternative of requiring pupils to remain at home.

No serious epidemic or effects are anticipated from Bensman's alleged exposure, but every precaution is being taken in the community.

An officer was expected Thursday from Sandusky to take Bensman before authorities there. According to health officials, he may later be brought to Putnam-co to face a criminal charge.

GRAVE SEARCHED FOR EVIDENCE

Florida Convict's Body Exhumed in Whipping Probe

COFFIN NOT YET OPENED

Delayed Under Protest Entered by Attorneys

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — (United Press) — A cypress box, found buried in the swamp near Clara, was believed to day to contain a dead body, one of the victims in a Florida convict camp.

The box—unopened on protest of attorneys—is believed to be the coffin of Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth, who died following an alleged flogging in the prison camp of the Putnam Lumber Company.

The dead body's story, expected to be made public, is substantiated by the accounts of the manner in which Tabert was held on the ground by a boat that into his neck while his back was whipped into a bloody pulp, is thought in connection with the Legislature's investigation of the state penitentiary system.

The legislators called on the dead yesterday after Arthur Johnson, a former negro convict, testified he helped bury Tabert's body in a water-soaked grave in a palmetto swamp near Clara.

FINDING OF COFFIN

The cypress box of mystery was found in the Mingo cemetery, after Johnson, terrified by armed men, had probed the vicinity for an hour.

The band of men greeted the party at Tabert and followed the legislators and their guide in the search for the grave. Pistols were prominently displayed and Johnson expressed his fear of violence.

The negro pattered about the clearing, with the armed men on all sides, until the legislators intervened and asked the crowd to disperse.

A small mound of soil, with roots peering to mark the spot, was pointed out by Johnson as the grave of Tabert. Two convicts thrust their spades into the soft dirt and began the work of exhuming the body. While the digging proceeded, Attorney G. Grimsom of North Dakota, representing Tabert's relatives, filed a formal protest against the proceedings, declaring the grave should be positively identified. He asked the legislators to hold up the work, waiting receipt of dental charts and other information which will establish the North Dakota boy's identity. Representative Kenaway, however, refused the request.

RAIN CAUSES DELAY

Rain then caused a temporary delay but the convicts were at their task again before the shower had passed and a few minutes later their spades struck root boards, which when carefully removed, revealed the cypress box.

Before the casket could be opened, Grimsom called to the legislators to disperse and again proposed that the work be discontinued until the dental charts and other information arrived offering to bear the expense of another visit to the grave.

Hearing of further evidence in the probe will be required by the committee this afternoon. At the conclusion of today's session, the committee will consider evidence of alleged cruelties in a camp operated by State Senator T. J. Knapp.

ACTION IS TAKEN TO SPEED UP SUGAR CASE

WASHINGTON—Acting Attorney General Rosenbaum announced today that the government had filed a certificate of expedition in the sugar anti-trust case at New York, in order to prevent possible delays in the case, first hearing of which is set for April 30.

The government's petition, he said, sets forth that the case is one of "urgent importance to the public" and should be given precedence over others.

Under the certificate of expedition, it may also be paid for an immediate appeal by either side to the supreme court, the certificate removing the necessity for an intermediate hearing by the circuit court of appeals.

WHISPERING SAGE

By Harry Sinclair Drago and Joseph Noel—Copyright, 1923.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Jose, leader of the Basque in Paradise Valley, is shot and killed from ambush. Acklin, boss of the Double A ranch, and Bodine, new owner of the Old Webster place, rob the Basque of their water supply. Acklin secretly builds a dam and cuts off the water from Bodine's ranch. Kildare, one of Acklin's men, in love with Mercedes, daughter of Jose Arrascada, discovers some clues pointing to the murderer of the Basque leader.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
He had not long to wait. Five minutes, and the horsemen were in the saddle. Bodine was in front. The impulse to drop him out of the saddle was strong; but the thrill of the chase, and the knowledge that the man was as nothing compared to the start he expected when Buck's companion turned his tale squarely at Kildare.

The cowboy sank back into his seat, his rifle dropping to his side. A grim, sagacious smile hardened his face; into his eyes came a flash of satisfaction.

From his pocket he took the picture he had shown Melody. It was Shorty's photograph.

"Gee, Kid," he breathed aloud. "I'm going to keep my word with you."

CHAPTER XXV

A Clever Plot
Liotard was hours getting down to the valley with his story. Kildare had left for the Bull's Head long before the old man went by. It was a shame to let that tale of the sheep-man to Bodine's first with his tale of grief. Buck's sense of humor was equal to the occasion, however.

"Wait till the folks down below hear about this," the big fellow roared, in a fine show of anger. "I'll go with you right now."

Thus the two of them burst upon the quiet town in mid-afternoon. Bad news travels fast, and their story was soon common property. Buck's violent indignation and old Liotard's repeated turning to him for confirmation of his loss began to have its effect on the Basques. Even Esteban met him without an open show of hostility.

A little thing in itself, but one from which Buck took a great deal of comfort, was the fact that Kent had gone back to Winnemucca. By evening the temper of the crowd in town was at white heat. An hour from now Bodine knew they would be cooling down. The abuse he had heaped on Acklin, added to their own bitter hatred of the man, had brought the big fellow's plans to a climax. If he were to profit by them, he had to risk tossing the dice now.

He was in Bonavides' bar surrounded by a small group that he held charmed with his vitriolic eloquence. To his listeners Buck seemed concerned only with them, but one-eyed Manuel and he had never for a second relaxed their furtive watch of each other. The bartender moved away to serve new customers near the door. Bodine recognized Esteban among the men who had just come in. He walked over to where the boy was draining his glass.

"Say, I hope you ain't tankin' up at a time like this," he began. "These folks are dependin' on you to do somethin' for them."

"I won't be asking any advice of you."

"And I won't be givin' any, either," Bodine was at his best. "I ain't forgettin' that you told me once you'd take care of Acklin by yourself. Well, nothin' happened yet. You folks kill one of his cows, and he burns down your warehouse. You hit back, and he drives your sheep over the cliffs. You'll grow fat on that kind of stuff, won't you?"

The murmur behind him was encouragement enough to make Buck E. on.

Bodine could feel the curiosity arising in the boy.

"But as I said, I ain't givin' advice where it ain't wanted. I'm goin' home now. When I get to the cottonwoods by the bridge, I'll wait five minutes. If you want to hear what I've got to say, you meet me there."

It wasn't necessary for Buck to look at his watch. He had barely arrived in the shade of the trees when he saw Esteban come out and get on his horse.

"Make it quick," the boy snapped when he drew rein beside him.

"Well, then, let's forget this game of bushwackin'. I been doin' a little scoutin' on my own around the dam. You can't get near it from the south. Acklin's men are there night and day. The old wire fence doesn't count any more. They've moved their cattle back into the hills. Five men can guard the dam easier than twenty could ride that old line. You know how the country narrows up there."

Esteban nodded his head. Bodine had told him nothing he did not know himself. He continued to sit motionless as Buck went on.

"Lookin' round, I found a way to get by these Double A waddies. Get into the Kings' first; follow the creek north, say five miles beyond where that little branch cuts in from the west. You'll see old Bengoa's ranch, but keep east of that, by'm by you'll come to a little park of birches. You can't miss the trail east. It heads to the north in a little while. Disaster Peak will be right in front of you. When you get there, pick up a creek, any one they're all flowin' to the Martin. Coal Creek is the nearest. It ain't over five miles from there down to the head of the water Acklin's backed up. His lake's near full already."

"And if we get there, then what?"

"There won't be any if about it. We'll get there. And when we do, we'll blow his dam out so pretty he'll be the res of his life squaring the damage-suits."

Blowing up the dam had occurred to the boy, too, but he had how impossible it was to get near the wall. Bodine's plan was still a closed book to the young Basque.

"How are you going to get down to the wall from there?" he asked.

"You won't be any better off than trying it from this end."

"Oh, yes, we will! We won't even try to get near the wall. 'Say—"

"Well, you can take me on faith, or forget it." The boy was still cautious. "I won't pass my word until I know what I'm promising."

"I'll go you on that," Bodine was not standing on ceremony. "You get the dynamite. Acklin would spot me afterward if I bought it. You haven't got any on hand, have you?"

"Six cases or so. My father was getting ready to use it this fall," Esteban answered after searching his companions' face.

"That's great," Buck shouted enthusiastically. "It's more than we need. I'll build a bomb that'll tear a hole in that wall big enough to put an elephant through. We'll sneak the powder, and the other stuff we want, up the way I said. We'll make a raft—there's lots of cedars up there—and put our little old mine on it. The wind drives down that canon every night. It don't vary five minutes. All we'll have to do is push her off and she'll hit the dam. I timed a log one night. I'll fix the fuse so we'll be sure, and just to be certain of it, we'll cover the raft with oil. If it happens to drift down quicker than I figure, the fuse will set the damna thing afire and blow up the works anyhow."

Esteban's eyes were the only answer Buck needed.

"I'm ready now," Buck was not taking any chances on time.

"Tomorrow night, then," Esteban compromised. "I'll be at your place by noon. Why not go straight north through the buttes? We can make it by way of the hills in two hours. What do you say?"

"It's a terrible chance. Tomorrow will have his riders in the buttes."

"I'll draw them away." There was a note of sureness in the boy's voice as he went on. "I'll send a dozen men up that trail across the peak tonight. They'll make so much noise tomorrow will have his men camping there tomorrow evening. We'll go through in back of them."

CHAPTER XXVI

Bodine's Discovery
It was not quite ten o'clock the following morning when Kildare walked My Man to the top of the rise from which he had taken his first look at Paradise Valley. He was on his way to the Bull's Head from Winnemucca. He had taken his long deferred day off to attend to what he had told Morrow was personal business. His pointabout route by which he was returning was due to a promise given the foreman.

Blaze had kept to himself his knowledge of Bodine's part in the war of reprisals that was being waged. He had no intention of letting the Double A frighten Shorty out of the country. He had waited too long for that; and when the time was ripe, he planned to settle the issue between the two parties by himself. But as he swept his eyes over the desolation that marked the once prosperous Buena Vista, he knew that he could not pass by without attempting to see the girl who had haunted him from the time he had first met her.

Blaze had heard nothing of Esteban; but unless the boy had changed greatly, he could imagine the pitch to which he must be aroused if he had been deceived into believing that Acklin had fired their wool and killed Liotard's sheep. As he went My Man toward the hacienda, he resolved to try to tell the boy the truth, or at least part of it.

The sound of a crying child caught his ears as he rode by the open door of the barn. He stopped and called, and Basilio came out, rubbing his face with his sleeve.

"What's the matter, little chief?" he called, solitarily.

"Esteban has gone to Uncle Peter's," the little tot sobbed, "and he wouldn't let me go along. He

"Don't you mind," Blaze consoled him. "It's a long hot ride, and Uncle Peter will just about be busy with the hayin', so don't you cry, little chief. The water in the Kings is so low you couldn't do any fishin' now."

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO HER FRIEND, BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

DEAR BEE:

I am writing this letter to you because you only of all the people I know are aware of the reason why I decided not to give up my position when I married Sam. You know that he, like many other men of great talent and business perspicuity of vision and fascination, was addicted to drink before the prohibition law was passed.

I do not think I would ever have married him had not prohibition become a law. It seemed to me that in our circumstances it would be almost impossible for Sam to get very much liquor and I knew he really wanted to break off from the awful stuff.

You have often heard my ideas on the subject and you know that I have always thought it was the agent which led to the most terrible tragedies and the greatest immorality is all the world.

Sam is not unkind; he is not ungentlemanly; he is not impotent even when he has been drinking. But he is not himself. And I am always afraid that he will do something for which he will have to pay to the uttermost.

The day after the quarrel of which I wrote you, when Sam came in I noticed that he did not kiss me. I thought it was very strange, but when I made an excuse to get near him I understood. He had been drinking.

He owned up to it when I accused him, but excused it by saying that his boss had invited him to luncheon and that he had had something on his hip. "I could hardly refuse to drink with my boss, could I?" he inquired, somewhat hesitantly.

"I wonder if you know," I said to Sam, "that Mr. Watkins would be the first to discharge you if you should do anything reprehensible while under the influence of liquor?"

"Of course I do, my dear, but you see I am not going to do anything reprehensible. You know that, do you not?"

"I think you did something reprehensible, Sam, when you accepted a drink even from your boss. You were both disobeying the laws of your country."

"Oh, come off, Sally, don't be a prude. A man is rather proud of being drunk nowadays. It shows that either he has money himself or has friends who have money."

"And is having money the standard by which you live, Sam?"

"Isn't it yours?" he asked, rather satirically.

And then, Bee, I knew that Sam thought I was working outside my home simply to make a little more money, when you know and I know I was only keeping my position for fear that some day Sam will lose his.

Am I right or is he?

Dubiously, SALLY.

JAILED WOMAN IS BITTER AT U. S.

Honduras Prisoner, Believed to be Clara Phillips, Interviewed

CLAIMS NAME OF CARSON

Angered at Treatment of American Minister

(BY HERMAN ROPELETO)

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — (United Press) — Pacing her cell in a fury, ranting against American justice, the woman who was arrested here as Clara Phillips, the Los Angeles "hammer murderer," was interviewed in the city jail today for the first time.

The woman told the correspondent her name was Mrs. Jesse Carson. (Dispatches from Honduras have hitherto referred to the prisoner as Mrs. R. M. Young.)

Bitter against reporters, just as was the escaped "tigress," this caged woman thrust up her hands in aversion and disgust as the correspondent entered her cell by permission of the city authorities. After the interview she said she would talk to no more newspaper men. It was explained to her that the press of America was waiting for the story of her wanderings thru the United States, Mexico, Guatemala and Salvador after her escape from prison in Los Angeles.

"I should not say a word—I should keep my mouth shut until the officers arrive from the United States to take me back there," she cried.

ANGERED AT MINISTER

She spoke with anger of the American minister in Tegucigalpa who reported her presence to the Washington state department and thus brought about her arrest.

"He has not treated my sister and myself as women should be treated," she declared.

The woman referred to as her sister, is in the same prison with her, while J. C. Carson, the man arrested with them, is held at the national penitentiary.

Pressed for details of her wanderings thru Mexico, Guatemala and Salvador where she traversed before reaching here, the woman spoke highly of their governments.

At that time she had recovered from her aversion, first betrayed when the correspondent entered, and her manner was serene.

BAGGAGE TAKEN
But when the courts of the United States were mentioned, she started as if she had received a severe shock. Then turning to her "sister" who sat beside her, she suddenly began talking rapidly in a language other than English or Spanish. The two carried on a rapid conversation which was unintelligible.

She displayed anger at the American courts and seemed to lose her temper completely while chattering about them.

Then she switched to the subject of her baggage, which appears was taken from her when she was arrested. This, she regards as an injustice and another cause of grievance.

"Why can't I have my baggage?" she snapped.

"Since my arrest, I have not been permitted to get my things from my bag."

"What are your plans for the future?" she was asked.

"I have no plans whatever," she said.

(Other United Press cables today from San Salvador said the woman arrested as Clara Phillips had determined to resist extradition.)

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wisconsin. — "I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my housework and washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do everything that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family." — Mrs. MARY SAEBCHUCK, 944 28th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

CROSSING PROTECTION

COUNTY and city authorities should coordinate their efforts in bringing pressure to bear for the establishment of automatic devices at rail grade crossings for the protection of vehicle drivers, or in an attempt to require railroad companies to maintain crossing watchmen.

It may be possible for the city and the county to attain results sought in protecting the people against such accidents as occurred recently at Scotts Crossing, when one was killed and four others injured, but it is believed better and quicker results will be had by uniting in a demand before the state utilities commission.

One of the weaknesses of the human race is that the general public is quick to forget when bad accidents occur, toward which the possible carelessness of others contribute in the striking of innocent victims. A great hue and cry is raised, drastic action is proposed, everybody applauds and then—well, the officials are expected to perform miracles and the public dismisses the incident.

Time goes on and the same thing soon occurs again. The public lashes itself in an excited frame of mind, goes thru the same performance of protesting, resolving, condemning and threatening. No tangible results are obtained in a determination to remove causes of slaughter.

Let it be hoped that this latest effort will amass better results; that something really will be done to protect pedestrians and owners of vehicles from ruthless slaughter by monsters of steel and iron which thunder thru space over ribbons of metal, with crossings unprotected.

There is no doubt whatever but that the record of killings by fast trains can be reduced materially, if not altogether eliminated. Somebody must pay the cost for protection, and in this case there is no question but that the burden—if it is so looked upon—should fall to the railroad companies. They are operating under grants given by permission of the people. Conditions that result in killings should be removed.

WE FORGET TOO EASILY

HOW many days since you have thought of Coue? He is almost forgotten. To endure persistently in American memory, one must be a baseball player, a prizefighter, a stage or movie star, a theatrical scientist or medical man—or the inventor or marketer of a breakfast food, beauty lotion or some mechanical device that can be sold cheaply.

A reader, one of the few who will get permanent good from Coue's system of harnessing the imagination, sends a letter announcing his discovery that the original disciple of the Coue method of treating ailments by auto-suggestion was—Socrates!

He died 2322 years ago.

XENOPHON, Greek historian and militarist wrote in his "Memorabilia" that Socrates one day said to him:

"I consider that those live best who study best to become as good as possible; and that those live with most pleasure who feel the most assurance that they are DAILY GROWING BETTER AND BETTER."

That sounds familiar, strikingly like Coue's "Day by day, in every way, I grow better and better."

Coue, of course, never claimed that he originated the idea, but instead popularized it by giving it a new twist. Hudson had the same idea 31 years ago. So did others, farther back, on thru the misty ages. Socrates may have picked it up in the writings of some ancient who died centuries before Socrates was born.

Ten thousand years ago, and more, they probably had epiphenomena of the Coue idea. The orientals, especially.

THOUSANDS of years from now, the Coue idea will be resurrected and have flash-in-the-pan epiphenomena of popularity. Thru the ages, experience has taught certain lessons which the wise have put in the form of proverbs. Such saws as "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," "Honesty is the best policy," "Don't make a mountain out of a mole-hill."

All this wisdom is available to us, constantly. But, as with the Socrates-Coue idea, we most of the time ignore what was found to be truthful by previous generations who got hard bumps in the finding. "Old foggy" notions, we call them. So did past generations, and so will future.

Success and happiness are easy to reach; the rule's simple.

EXPLAINING THE EXPLANATION

Oh, what a lot of folks we frighten when first we practise to enlighten, and no small task to undeceive those tangled in the web we weave!

In describing the use of boric acid as the antiseptic when mouth-wash spray or gargle is desired, particularly to discourage that veritable germ, the Pneumococcus, I probably did a little too much "e-plaining," mentioning that the Pneumococcus is often responsible for such distant focal infections as arthritis, appendicitis, pleurisy, pericarditis and valvular trouble. Thus unwittingly I suggested to numerous readers that boric acid is good for arthritis and so on. Many of them wrote for the full directions. There ain't no directions. I didn't think and didn't imply that boric acid could have any effect upon these diseases.

My mean motive in dragging the "explanation" into the article was merely to increase the popularity of boric acid as the preferable household mouth wash, gargle and spray when an antiseptic is required, thereby perhaps to prevent some of the conditions mentioned in the unfortunate "explanation." And now, to preside further entanglement, let me repeat that a saturated solution of boric acid means all the water will dissolve when still warm after boiling; a saturated solution is correct for use as a mouth-wash. The saturated solution may be reduced with plain boiled water, half and half, equal parts, for use as eye drops or eye wash, always comfortably warm, or for use as a spray for the nasal passages likewise comfortably warm. For ear drops for running ear a saturated solution of boric acid in alcohol is preferable—that means as much boric acid as the alcohol will take up; two or three drops of the solution in the ear each night and morning for a month or two. How much water, or alcohol, or boric acid? Suit yourself, any quantity from a thimbleful to a barrel, but please remember I do not advise boric acid as a cure for rheumatism, pneumonia or meningitis.

Just one more misunderstanding to explain and then I'll resume my regular job of explaining things.

In a recent article about bacteriophobia or abnormal fear of germs I included a list of germ diseases "pusgerm infection." Numerous readers want to know just what the pus-germ is, how it gets into the system, and so on.

Various germs may produce pus in the body tissues, such as the more or less well known Streptococcus viridan, Streptococcus hemolyticus, Strep—but this will only add to the confusion. Then, too, the versatile Pneumococcus often produces pus, for instance in many appendicitis cases, in some quincy cases, in some sinus infections. This may be more understandable. Well, sir, I leave it to you to figure how such germs get into the system. My notion is that for the most part we gulp 'em in, in the invisibly fine droplets of spray from lips or nose or mouth or fingers in the barrage of our friends.

I hope this isn't all meaningless, for it is meant as an explanation.

TELLING IT TO KITTY O'GRADY

So you'd play the lady, Miss Kitty O'Grady?
 You'd sit in the parlor as nice as you please,
 An' wear your silk dresses, an' fuss with your tresses,
 An' let your white fingers run over the keys;
 With your elegant manner, you'd strum the piano,
 An' merrily warble a ballad or two.
 Though work may be painful, don't act so disdainful,
 Come out in the kitchen, there's dishes to do!

Come out to your duty, my proud, haughty beauty,
 Those hands would look finer now holdin' a broom.
 I know it's a pity, but you can look pretty
 An' powder your nose when you've dusted the room.
 The parlor is cozy, but you're not a posy,
 You're no pink geranium stuck in a vase.
 Come out here, I need you! Don't think that I feed you Just for the smirk on your beautiful face.
 'Twere better my lady, to be an O'Grady,
 Plain Kitty O'Grady who works when she must,
 Than your time to be spendin' with sham an' pretendin'
 An' know that your dreams will all vanish in dust.
 'Tis truth that I'm statin', the work that you're hatin',
 Will fall to you some day in spite of your prayers;
 Though your smile is bewitchin', there's always the kitchen.
 The kitchen of life with its duties an' cares.

ANOTHER PRIZE BEAUTY

Here's Maribaret Cordet, adjudged the most beautiful girl at Martha Washington College, Adington, Va.

THERE'S MORE SEASONING THAN SALT AND PEPPER

The people of ancient days used more seasoning in their food preparations than we do, and some of their seasonings are not appealing to our sense of taste—assafoetida, for instance. The supposition is that, because they had no refrigeration, meats spoiled readily and some of the very highly flavored ingredients were added to cover up the taste.

But let us consider some of the seasonings besides salt and pepper, which the housewife should have on her shelves, and thus add much variety, as to flavor, in her daily menus. First of all vegetables come, the onion and its relations, the shallot, garlic, chives and leeks.

There is nothing which so improves some salads, meats and sauces as garlic. But it must be used with discretion and that means one of the several sections found in a garlic. One of these sections which should be peeled, cut into halves and rubbed over the bowl in which a salad is served will give just that unusual and delicious flavor so often lacking.

Color comes next, perhaps, and the root, stalk, tender leaves and seed are all used for seasoning. The celery root, or "knob celery," is used in soups and salads or when creamed as a vegetable.

PARSLEY USEFUL
Then comes parsley, which should be used quite as much as a seasoning as for a garnish. When parsley is plentiful in the summer it may be dried and kept for winter use. If dipped in boiling water and then in cold water before drying the color is retained.

The leaf of the laurel or bay tree is an excellent aromatic seasoning, but if used too plentifully overpowers the other flavors. For the ordinary amount of meat or sauces

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart:
I am a girl 17 years old. Two boys are crazy about me and are both anxious with me to go with them. I go with them, but I go with other boys, too. Had I better give up all the others for one of them? I'm afraid if I don't, both of them may quit going with me and go with some girl who is willing to "keep steady company."

HELENN.
UNTIL you are definitely engaged, there is no good reason why you should not divide your attention as you see fit. Why not consider your own feelings in the matter. Which one do you like best?

Dear Miss Smart:
We are a club of girls, all about 14 years old. We are planning a hike for some warm day in May. Would it be alright to invite some boys of our own age?

ALL OF US.
Yes, if you invite them as guests of the club, and there is no pairing off.

It is understood, of course, that your mother approve of the arrangements and that, whether boys are invited or not, a mother, teacher or some other responsible older person shall accompany the party on the hike.

Dear Miss Smart:
Will you kindly tell me thru your column in The Lima News what relation, if any, is Olivia to the Duffs? I enjoy reading the doings of the Duffs and would thank you to tell me.

Olivia is a sister of Mrs. Duff, I believe.

If "Hard Luck" and H. M. will please send me their names and addresses, I will forward them "V.I.'s" in name and address. Miss V.I.'s home is in Delphos, so you will have to write her to get an appointment with her, if you so choose.

Dear Miss Smart:
I am going to write just a very short letter this time and so—first of all—I want to thank you for publishing my letter. I am glad you liked it, and I will surely write again some other time.
I read "M.M." letter in The Lima News in response to mine. I should like to correspond with him, if you care to forward the address.
Surely "M.M." missed a heap of enjoyment when he failed to read your column in The Lima News. I have found it very very interesting and I hope "M.M." gets the habit of reading it more often.

Your suggestion which you added as a postscript in your letter meets with approval on my part. Be sure and carry it out, that is, if "R.M." responds. If he sends in his address, as I am sure he will, I will send your name and address to him.

SAYS IT DID HIM WORLD OF GOOD

Fingers Would Get as Stiff as Boards and Right Limb Would Swell

RELIEVED BY PLANT JUICE

"I can honestly say that your Plant Juice medicine has done me a world of good and I can't praise it too highly," said Mr. S. V. Ferguson, of Cairo, Ohio, while talking with The Plant Juice Man a few days ago at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima. Mr. Ferguson is a well known man, having many friends both at Cairo and in Lima. Continuing, he said:

MR. S. V. FERGUSON
"For over a year I had had a swelling in my right limb and in my wrists and when I would carry anything my fingers would get as stiff as boards. I had severe pains in my back; bowels were in bad condition; I could not sleep right; appetite was poor and I often had dizzy spells.

"I tried several medicines but without results and then I began to read in the papers about your Plant Juice medicine and I started taking it. I must say that I noticed a change in my condition almost from the first dose I took. I am now greatly improved. The swelling in my limbs is gone and the stiffness in my fingers which I had before has been relieved so much that it does not bother me at all now. I eat and sleep fine; bowels are in good condition and the pains in my back have been relieved. I think your Plant Juice is a great medicine and can honestly say that it has done me a world of good."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.
Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

STORY ON STAGE LOSES SUBTLETY OF BOOK

(BY GERTRUDE GILLHAM)
 I read a S. M. Hutchison's "If Winter Comes" somewhat in haste simply to learn the story and with not much attention to its very excellent details, you have about the same impression one has in seeing the stage play made from the novel.

In the book, characters were built up and psychology developed through slight but revealing situations. The quality of subtlety achieved through deft phrasing is only partly transferred to the stage.

All of which is not intended as a statement that "If Winter Comes" is not a good play. It is an excellent play, but in the field of drama it falls short of the height gained by the novel in the field of literature.

It would not have been practicable to have transferred all of the story's action to the stage and so the play proceeds at a faster clip than the pace of the novel.

As the play is speeded up the poetry of Hutchison's lines is not lost. Many of the lines in the book were poetry set in prose form. As Cyril Maude, playing the role of Mark Sabre, speaks his lines many of them fall with poetic cadence. The rhythmic measure of the author's lines is more evident on the stage than in the book. Clarence Dana's "Cryl" is extremely moving and attractive as the homely heroine. Noel Tearla hardly measures up to the difficult role of the shell-shocked husband, but the role of his blind friend is played by one of the most talented actors on Broadway, Gilbert Emery.

The whimsical Cyril Maude is at times an excellent Mark Sabre. At other times he is entirely out of character. That is because

"Trailing African Wild Animals"

MARTIN JOHNSON'S "Trailing African Wild Animals," picturing an expedition into the wild jungle country of the Dark Continent, will begin a brief engagement at the Quilna Theatre next Sunday.

Mr. Johnson was accompanied by his brave little wife as his only white companion and they headed an expedition fully equipped with cameras and firearms for the purpose of bringing back pictured records of wild animals in their native lairs.

The extraordinary success met with by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson has resulted in a motion picture entity that is promised to include extensive thrills in all who respond in the least to the call of adventure or who love nature and who are attracted by its inhabitants.

The safari, as such an expedition

"Grumpy" seems to have indelibly stamped him. Called upon to show self-will he reverts to type, he becomes a feeble, childish old Grumpy rather than a middle-aged Sabre.

The characterization of Mabel Terry Lewis as Mabel Sabre is incisive and at all times perfect. Peggy Rush as Effie Bright and Boyd Clark as Twining also offer notable portrayals.

Sir Arthur Wing Pinero isn't shining on his own side when he plays with fantasy. He introduces spirits, gnomes and sprightly devils in several scenes of "The Enchanted Cottage." The fairyland effect is heightened with lights that flash about the stage like Barrie's Tinker Bell.

"The Enchanted Cottage" deals with the romance of a war casualty and a girl as homely as the proverbial mud fence. Once they fall in love they are transfixed in each other's eyes, but fear the change in their appearance will cause comment among their acquaintances. When they at last appear before others they are as before.

Sir Arthur didn't have the courage to say on his own authority that love beautifies life. He put the responsibility on the poor little fairies.

Katherine Cornelli, ordinarily a beautiful girl, manages to make her "look" extremely grumpy and unattractive as the homely heroine. Noel Tearla hardly measures up to the difficult role of the shell-shocked husband, but the role of his blind friend is played by one of the most talented actors on Broadway, Gilbert Emery.

CYRIL MAUDE in stage version of "If Winter Comes."

KATHERINE CORNELLI as the homely heroine of "The Enchanted Cottage."

and song "life" and later decides that her own home provided more happiness. She does not return however, until she has completely captivated two very eligible heirs.

Claude Gillingwater, always a capable actor, appears to advantage as the stern Southern Colonel, grandfather of Emmu. Allan Forrest and John Bowers play the roles of the suitors.

Bella Hawthorne, a company of seven artists who sing, dance and offer instrumental selections, is given in addition to "Crimoline and Romance."

Final Offering of Billy Allen Company at Orpheum

WELTY WILL ASK EARLY TRIAL

Ex-Congressman Is Indicted by Federal Grand Jury

FEE EXCESSIVE, IS CHARGE

Lima Man Declares he is Not Guilty of Offense

TOLEDO—(Associated Press)—
Benjamin F. Welty, former congressman of Lima, pleaded not guilty today to violating the soldiers' compensation act. Bond was set at $1,500. A secret indictment charges
Welty received $1,274.64 for obtaining compensation for Franklin
K. Strayer, discharged after 10 years' service in army. The law permits but $3.

Benjamin F. Welty, 527 W. Market-st., former member of congress, indicted by the federal grand jury
at Toledo on a charge of unlawfully soliciting and collecting $1,274.64
for services in the Franklin Strayer war risk compensation matter, will seek an early trial, he declared
Thursday.

Welty spent Wednesday in Toledo, but was not called before the grand jury.

The indictment returned by the grand jury charges that Welty collected a larger amount than is allowed by law for procuring $3,700
war compensation. His fees is alleged to have totaled $1,274.64,
whereas the largest amount allowed
under the law is $3.

The indictment returned is the culmination of an investigation instituted months ago by William Paul Gallagher Post, of the American Legion.

"I am not guilty of any crime or wrong," declared Welty. "I am glad that the district attorney and court will give me an early hearing in the matter, so that the truth may be known."

EMPLOYED BY STRAYER

Welty, it is said, was employed by William Strayer, N. Main-st., to obtain back compensation due his son, Franklin. The boy was in the army
for a short period during the war,
and was discharged because of disability, resulting from duty.

More than six months ago affidavits were obtained by American Legion officials from members of the Strayer family concerning the case. The documents were turned over to state headquarters, and were later sent to the department of justice.

About March 1, an investigator for the department of justice, visited Lima. He talked with Legion officials, and also interviewed
Welty.

Welty declared Thursday that he had not selected counsel to represent him in the trial. A statement
by Welty follows:

A little over a year ago, William Strayer, a farmer in my neighborhood, called at the office and informed me that his son was discharged from the army because he became insane a few days after he was drafted.

After learning that he had appealed for assistance to the Red Cross and to Andrews, Lindeman and Lindeman of Delphos, and was twice denied, I refused to attempt to collect his claim unless he paid the expenses of a personal visit to Washington. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance informed me that the son was insane before he was drafted and that the government could not pay the father the money he had expended in behalf of the son. Upon my return I procured evidence from neighbors and physicians showing that he was insane before being drafted into the army. At this time, they claimed that they could not allow the father anything because the son had never been a soldier. I found that the son had been regularly discharged as a soldier. I appeared before the department a third time. I was informed that the officers of the army "got hold of the wrong paper, and had no right to issue a discharge for him."

I appealed to Dr. Sawyer, private physician of President Harding, in whose private sanitarium the son was confined for a number of months, and to members of congress, submitting the indictment of this case. Later, the Bureau reversed its action and instead of compensating the father, they allowed compensation to the son, provided a guaranty was appointed. After appointing a guardian, I refused to permit him to pay the father's claims for expenses incurred in behalf of his son, amounting to $2,814.42, but instead filed a petition in the Court of Common Pleas praying for a judgment against the guardian and submitted the evidence, and all the law to Judge Becker for his opinion. On March 27, 1922, the Court allowed the father all his expenses, amounting to $2,814.42 and $400.
Thereafter the father paid me for my services in the case. My expenses amounted to $100 and $400.

I requested that the officers of the American Legion make a full investigation and receive the facts from me, and when they refused to meet me, I requested that they appoint a committee, and then I appealed to the State Commissioner, and he too refused to give me

a hearing. Afterwards, when I learned that the matter was taken up with the Department of Justice, I requested that if the facts were submitted to the Grand jury, I be permitted to appear in person, but this, too, was refused. The indictment charges me with collecting more than $3 for my services in the matter of procuring compensation for the son. I never received a penny from the guardian, or the insane son, or for that matter, I do not remember that I ever received a dollar for services rendered to soldiers, although I have been in a position to render more services than most people.

The Well-Managed Home

THE manager of a household is the purchasing agent for a large proportion of the family needs. In order to do a good job she must know what, when and where to buy. She must study goods and the concerns which make goods and have them to sell. She must put her home on a business basis and run it on business principles in order to make the most of the family income.

Information is the only basis for intelligent purchasing. And the right way to get the greatest amount of necessary information is to read the advertisements.

Advertisements tell you what is new and good in merchandise.
They reveal improvements and inventions that make your home life easier, more comfortable and more convenient. They give you information about a thousand and one things that are useful and interesting.

Every manager of a household—every member of the household who shares the responsibility for the family's welfare—should make a practice of reading the advertisements. They are daily lessons in economy.

Read the advertisements in order to buy wisely

STORY ON STAGE LOSES SUBTLETY OF BOOK

(BY GERTRUDE GILLHAM)
I read A. S. M. Hutchison's "If Winter Comes" somewhat in haste simply to learn the story and with not much attention to its very excellent detail, one has in seeing the stage play made from the novel.

In the book, characters were built up and psychology developed through subtle and revealing situations. The quality of subtlety achieved through deft phrasing is only partly transferred to the stage.

All of which is not intended as a statement that "If Winter Comes" is not a good play. It is an excellent play, but in the field of drama it falls short of the height gained by the novel in the field of literature.

It would not have been practicable to have transferred all of the story's action to the stage and so the play proceeds at a faster clip than the pace of the novel.

Even tho the play is speeded up by the poetry of Hutchison's lines is not lost. Many of the lines in the book were poetry set in prose form. As Cyril Maude, playing the role of Mark Sabre, speaks his lines many of them fall with poetic cadence. The rhythmic measure of the author's lines is more evident on the stage than in the book. Clemence Dane's "Will Shakespeare" is the only drama of recent years more pleasing to the ear than "If Winter Comes."

The whimsical Cyril Maude is at times an excellent Mark Sabre. At other times he is entirely out of character. That is because

"Trailing African Wild Animals"

MARTIN JOHNSON'S "Trailing African Wild Animals," picturing an expedition into the wild jungle country of the Dark Continent, will begin a brief engagement at the Quilna Theatre next Sunday.

Mr. Johnson was accompanied by his brave little wife as his only white companion and they headed an expedition fully equipped with cameras and film for the purpose of bringing back pictorial records of wild animals in their native haunts.

The extraordinary success met with by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson has resulted in a motion picture which is so promised to include extensive thrills in all who respond in the least to the call of adventure or who love nature and who are attracted by its inhabitants.

The safari as such an expedition

"Grumpy" seems to have indelibly stamped him. Called upon to show self-will he reverts to type, he becomes a feeble, childish old Grumpy rather than a mild-mannered Sabre. The characterization of Mabel Terry Lewis as Mabel Sabre is incisive and at all times perfect. Peggy Rush as Effie Bright and Boyd Clark as Twining also offer notable portrayals.

Sir Arthur Wing Pinero isn't shining on his own side when he plays with fantasy. He introduces spirits, gnomes and spirit-like devils in several scenes of "The Enchanted Cottage." The fairyland effect is heightened with lights that flash about the stage like Barrie's Tinker Bell.

"The Enchanted Cottage" deals with the romance of a war casualty and a girl as homely as the proverbial mud-fence. Once they fall in love they are transfixed in each other's eyes, but fear the charge in their appearance will cause embarrassment among their acquaintances. When they at last appear before others they are as before.

Sir Arthur didn't have the courage to lay on his own authority that love beautilies life. He put the responsibility on the poor little fairies.

Katherine Cornell, ordinarily a beautiful girl, manages to make her "elf" look extremely staid and unattractive as the homely heroine. Soot "it" is hardly an improvement on the difficult role of the shrewd husband, but the role of his blind friend is played by one of the most talented actors on Broadway, Gilbert Emery.

CYRIL MAUDE in "If Winter Comes"

KATHERINE CORNELL as the homely heroine of "The Enchanted Cottage" and sees "life" and later decides that her own home provided more happiness. She does not return, however, until she has completely captivated two very eligible hearts.

Claude Gillingwater, always a capable actor, appears to advantage as the stern southern Colonel.

grandfather of Emma. Allan Forrest and John Bowers play the roles of the suitors.

Patricia Hutton, a company of seven, in a dance and in addition to "Clemence and Rose as the stern southern Colonel."

WELTY WILL ASK EARLY TRIAL

Ex-Congressman Is Indicted by Federal Grand Jury

FEES EXCESSIVE, IS CHARGE

Lima Man Declares he is Not Guilty of Offense

TOLEDO.—(Associated Press).—
Benjamin F. Welty, former congressman of Lima, pleaded not guilty today to violating the soldiers'
compensation act. Bond was set at
$1,500. A secret indictment charges
Welty received $1,274.04 for obtaining compensation for Franklin
U. Strayer, discharged after 10 years' service in army. The law permits but $3.

Benjamin F. Welty, 527 W. Market-st., former member of congress,
indicted by the federal grand jury
at Toledo on a charge of unlawfully
soliciting and collecting $1,274.04
for services in the Franklin Strayer
war risk compensation matter, will seek an early trial, he declared
Thursday.

Welty spent Wednesday in Toledo, but was not called before the grand jury.

The indictment returned by the grand jury charges that Welty collected a larger amount than is allowed by law for procuring $3,700
war compensation. His fees is alleged to have totaled $1,274.04,
whereas the largest amount allowed
under the law is $3.

The indictment returned is the culmination of an investigation instituted months ago by William Paul Gallagher Post, of the American Legion.

"I am not guilty of any crime or wrong," declared Welty. "I am glad that the district attorney and court
will give me an early hearing in the matter, so that the truth may be known."

EMPLOYED BY STRAYER.
Welty, it is said, was employed by William Strayer, N. Main-st., to obtain back compensation due his son,
Franklin. The boy was in the army
for a short period during the war,
and was discharged because of disability, resulting from duty.

More than six months ago affidavits were obtained by American Legion officials from members of the Strayer family concerning the case. The documents were turned over to state headquarters, and were later sent to the department of justice.

About March 1, an investigator
for the department of justice, visited Lima. He talked with Legion
officials, and also interviewed
Welty.

Welty declared Thursday that he had not selected counsel to represent him in the trial. A statement
by Welty follows.

A little over a year ago, William Strayer, a farmer living west of the city, called at the office and informed me that his son was discharged from the army because he became insane a few days after he was drafted.

After learning that he had appealed
for assistance to the Red Cross and to Attorneys Lindeman and Lindeman of Delphos, and was twice denied, I refused to attempt to collect his claim unless he paid the expenses of a personal visit to Washington. The Bureau of Risk Insurance informed me that the son was insane before he was drafted and that the Government could not pay the money he had expended in behalf of the son. Upon my return I procured evidence from neighbors, and physicians showing that he was insane before being drafted into the army. At this time, they claimed that they could not allow the father anything because the son had never been a soldier. I found that the son
had been regularly discharged as a soldier. I appeared before the Department a third time. I was informed that the officers of the army "got hold of the wrong paper, and had no right to issue a discharge for him."

I appeared to Dr. Sawyer, private physician of President Harding, in whose private sanitarium the son was confined for a number of months, and
to members of Congress, submitting the evidence of this case. Later, the Bureau reversed itself and instead of compensating the father, they offered a compensation to the son, provided a guardian was appointed. After appointing a guardian, I refused to permit him to pay the father's claims for expenses
incurred in behalf of his son, amounting to $3,644.27, but was informed that the officers of the army, submitting a position in the Court of Common Pleas praying for a judgment against the son and all the day to Judge Becker for his opinion. On March 27, 1922, the Court
allowed the father all his expenses,
save and except the attorney fees.
Thereafter the father paid me for my service in the case, attorney expenses amounting to between $500 and $600.
I requested that the officers of the American Legion make a full investigation and receive the facts from me, and when they refused to meet me, I requested that they appoint a committee,
and then I appeared to the State Commissioner, and he too refused to give me

a hearing. Afterwards, when I learned that the matter was taken up with the Department of Justice, I requested that the facts were submitted to the Grand Jury, I be permitted to appear in person, but this, too, was refused. The indictment charges me with collecting more than is for my services in the matter of procuring compensation for the son. I never received a penny from the father, or the insane son, or for that matter, I do not remember that I ever received a dollar for services rendered to soldiers, altho probably I have been in a position to render more services than most people.
I am not guilty of any crime or wrong, and if a father should come to my office again with the same facts, I would render the same services and attempt to collect the amount he has expended for purpose of attempting to effect a cure for a soldier, who was disabled in the line of duty. I am glad that the Assistant District Attorney of Toledo and the Court will give me an early hearing in the matter, at which time I hope that the truth will be known.

The Well-Managed Home

THE manager of a household is the purchasing agent for a large proportion of the family needs. In order to do a good job she must know what, when and where to buy. She must study goods and the concerns which make goods and have them to sell. She must put her home on a business basis and run it on business principles in order to make the most of the family income.

Information is the only basis for intelligent purchasing. And the right way to get the greatest amount of necessary information is to read the advertisements.

Advertisements tell you what is new and good in merchandise.
They reveal improvements and inventions that make your home life easier, more comfortable and more convenient. They give you information about a thousand and one things that are useful and interesting.

Every manager of a household—every member of the household who shares the responsibility for the family's welfare—should make a practice of reading the advertisements. They are daily lessons in economy.

Curb Put on Boom Regarded as Gratifying

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK (Special)—Unto

retailers were branded as the blackest sheep of all when the price boosting became crazily rampant during the war boom and just before the

"buyers strike" set in.

The inevitable government interference was started—too late,

of course—but nothing was found out to justify any action whatsoever against any retailers.

This time you have heard—at least, I haven't heard—a word about profiteering by retail merchants.

The truth appears to be that retailers have thrown in their influence on the opposite side and have had a restraining effect on the upward trend of prices.

All of us are wiser in 1923 than we were in 1919-1920. We haven't forgotten the painful lesson we then learned. We realize that we cannot continue to enjoy golden eggs if we kill the goose that was laying them.

Read these sentences from a letter written, not to me but to one of my friends, by the President of a State

Retail Clothiers Association and not intended for publication:

"It occurs to me that if the facts vance was ascribed to an unexpected falling off in the volume of ship-demand from European continental countries. Better weather both northwest and southwest in this country failed to restrain buyers or to stop the upward tendency of values during the early dealings.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

WEEK'S CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

Turk Concession--Sugar--Pan-Americanism

By CHARLES P. STEWART

The international dispute the Turks have started—maybe by granting the concession to Admiral Chester looks bigger every day.

After studying the papers, "The Literary Digest" says:

"America's clash with Great Brittain and France will come not over the Ruhr, but over Turkey; this is the fear of many editors who note

the British and French reactions to the Turkish Assembly's ratification of the Chester concession."

The same publication quotes

"Paris correspondents" as saying, if the American government backs the concession, "a diplomatic incident of the first importance will result."

The plan of such vast scope that one authority speaks of it as providing for "a second Phillippines" in Asiatic Turkey.

RATHER PUZZLING, WHAT?

It's speculation, not the tariff.

It makes sugar so high, the government has decided.

An injunction against the speculators has been asked. If it sticks, injunctions against speculators in other kinds of food may be sought, too.

The Federal Tariff Commission also has been probing the sugar situ-

Germany doesn't like such disorders, they say, let her pay up.

TROUBLE IN ITALY

Premier Mussolini's Fascist government in Italy is having trouble.

The Fascist came into power, virtually by a revolution, as enemies of radicalism. Now there's talk of a counter-revolution. Mussolini took it seriously enough to have forced four of his own cabinet members to quit. He has warned the Fascist that stronger measures than ever are necessary to keep the radicals down.

His supporters are quoted as declaring his overthrow would mean communism.

Angry as the British government was at the execution of Monsignor

Eutichavitch, head of Roman

Catholicism in Russia, on a charge of conspiring against soviet rule,

it's decided to keep the British trade missions at Petrograd and Moscow.

At first the London foreign office

planned to break all relations with the Bolsheviks. It changed its mind, upon representations from big business interests that they didn't want to lose Russian trade.

BRITISH VOTE WET

The British House of Commons, by a vote of 286 to 14, killed a propoto the government at Peking, which professes to rule the whole country

but which really hasn't any authoity over more than about half of it,

north of the Yangtze River.

Many good judges think this note will be the signal for a general civil war.

At first the London foreign office

planned to break all relations with

the Bolsheviks. It changed its

mind, upon representations from

big business interests that they didn't want to lose Russian trade.

BRITISH VOTE WET

The British House of Commons, by

a vote of 286 to 14, killed a proposition bill introduced by the lone member, Edwin Scrymgeour of Dundee.

Numerous opponents of the measure cited the United States as a "horrible example" of how prohibition works. One member asserted there were 4,000 more arrests in the 26 leading American cities in 1922 than in 1918.

Right or wrong, an overwhelming majority of members of the Commons accepted these statements and figures as correct.

Miss Marietta Day, of the Board of Commerce office, found herself grasping a handless umbrella. This was on a street car. She wondered where she had picked it up. None of the others claimed it. Then she found the handle hanging on her arm. It was her own umbrella. "I'm sorry," she said. "The handle came off while I was carrying it."

W. D. MacKay, deputy state fire marshal, in the friends with a little child on a train from Lima to Bluffton.

At least," he says, "I was friendly. But I would hardly call it a friendly act on the child's part to paste me in the eye with a wet and sticky fist."

J. E. Fast of Delphos, tells of a friend who went to the Faurot Opera House in Lima.

When others took their hats to promenade in the large lobby he thought the show was over and went out. "It seemed like a good show," he said afterward. "But short."

Jude Emmett Jackson and James Heffner drove down to a boxing exhibit at Memorial Hall.

When they came out Heffner couldn't find the key with which he had locked the car. "So they went out to his house for another."

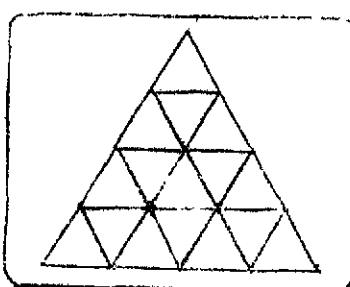

When they came back with another key, he looked in the slot and found the key where he had left it. Tableau.

Charley McKinley accompanied his wife to the circus. They overheard an argument a man was having with a seller of reserved seats concerning the cost of preferred positions.

The man wanted several tickets. The salesman told him they would cost $4.50.

"Gwan," said the man, "I can buy a Ford for that amount."

TODAY'S PUZZLE

The number triangle shown above is said by certain students to have been inscribed upon the mummy case of an Egyptian pharaoh. It is supposed to be the mystic sign of the Egyptian deities, Isis, Osiris and Anubis. The triangle is equilateral, and contains 16 smaller equilateral triangles. The most remarkable thing about it, however, is the fact that the design may be drawn in one continuous line, without lifting the pencil from the paper, and with out going over any line twice. Can you solve the problem?

Yesterday's answer:

Three slices can be made into the number seven by writing them as shown above, so they represent six and six sixths. As six sixths is one, the number therefore represents seven.

DON'T KEEP A MICROBE NURSERY

Your garbage pail at best is no bower of roses. But it can be inoffensive and harmless if you're careful. And it's so easy to keep it clean and sanitary. All you need is to keep handy a can of Babbitt's Lye and use it as directed below. Don't think that other disinfectants are better because they cost many times more. They're not as good.

Cuts to the Quick

No more disinfectant will both cleanse and sterilize as Babbitt's Lye does. This powerful solvent dissolves the greasy coating of the can in a hurry, cuts everything right down to the quick and leaves the surface clean and sweet. It's low cost is another big reason for using Babbitt's. You can afford to use it freely and often. You can't say that of most disinfectants.

Hidden Dangers Are Deadliest

If you could just see the filth inside the drain from your kitchen sink you would realize the danger lurking there. You would understand, too, why nothing but a strong lye would dissolve this greasy mess and keep the pipe clean and sanitary. The usual disinfectant won't touch it. But Babbitt's Lye quickly dissolves every bit of grease and slime—turns it into soft soap which is easily washed out.

A Little Each Day Keeps The Doctor Away

Babbitt's destroys utterly all microbes and disease germs and leaves your drain clean, sanitary and safe. Don't wait for drains to become clogged. That's risky. Babbitt's costs so little and goes so far that you can afford to use it liberally in all drains. Form the habit of using a little every day. It may save doctor bills.

For Drains:

Put into the opening of the drain two tablespoonfuls of dry Babbitt's Lye and trickle in very slowly a half gallon of hot water. After ten minutes flush freely from the faucet.

For Garbage Pails:

With an old broom scour the inside of the pail with two tablespoonfuls of Babbitt's Lye dissolved in 4 quarts of hot water. Rinse with clear water and dry in the sun.
